SENATE IN CLASH

Say Pensacola's Postmaster Holds Office Year More Than Term.

The Senate, in executive session, after a statement by Senator Taliaferro of Florida of the facts in the Pensacola postoffice case, took steps for an investigation of the legal aspects of the Presi-

The case was declared by Senators, it is understood, to be the very sort the President's critics have been seeking, committee sent to interview him on the They believe they can make on it a stronger indictment for usurpation of partonage power than has yet been produced. It is regarded by the Senatorial critics of White House policies as worse than the Ohio cases, in which postmas ters were appointed on such conditions that when the facts were explained the Senate unanimously rejected them.

Northup Renominated.

William H. Northup was appointed postmaster at Pensacola, the most important office in Florida, February 19, 1903. He was confirmed and received a four-year commission. About a year ago he was nominated to succeed himself, despite strong opposition, and charges against the efficiency of his conduct of the office. Senator Mallory, since dead, took the case before the Senate and on an exposition of the case, Northup was rejected by that body,

Instead of making a new appointment definitely under this rule as applied to the old appointment.

It is conceded at the department that if Northup had been a new man, appointed a year ago to succeed somebody else, and had been rejected, he would have been forced out of the office. But being once in the office, no matter how unsatisfactory his service, and despite his rejection by the Senate, he cannot be forced out, even after the expiration of his commission, if the President declines to name a successor. In this case Northup has served almost a year after being rejected, and after the expiration of his commission.

Waited Before Protesting

Waited Before Protesting.

The Florida Senators waited a long time without making protest, supposing in due time. But as the session of conscience for days to come.

Congress is now almost two months old, and they could discover no evidence of intention to make a new appointment, Senator Taliferro took the case before woman's League has adopted to raise the Senate in yesterday's executive session. Much effort was made to keep the discussion secret, and not until today did snything about it leak out.

According to reports, the attitude of the Administration in this case was most severely censured by Senators on both sides. The case was pronounced a most effective demonstration of the Charge of late freely made by both Republican and Democratic Senators that the patronage power is being used for Taft.

So vigorous was the Senate's disagreement with the Administration's attitude in retaining Northup, that steps were taken to secure an official statement from the Postoffice Department about the case, which will be followed, it is said, by an investigation by the Senate.

In connection with this Pensacola case, it was said in a part of security session. Among those who will act as patroneeses and visit the various stands during the two days are:

followed, it is said, by an investigation by the Senate.

In connection with this Pensacola case, it was said in political circles today that very recently a number of powerful Florida Republican politicians were entertained at the White House very quietty; so quietly that the function received no publicity at all. The anti-Taft interests charge that the arfair had to do with arrangements for perfecting the Taft line-up in the State. In the executive session of the Senate yesterday afternoon, that body without a dissenting vote rejected the nomination of Charles Falrbanks, as pension agent at Concord, N. H. The fact Mr. Falrbanks bears the same honorable name as the Vice President didn't save him. The nominee is a Taft man, and has the support of the Winston Churchill faction in New Hampshire, which has been supporting Gen. Frank S. Streeter in his aspirations for the Senate to succeed Senator Gallinger. When the name of Falrbanks was sent to the Senate Pensions Committee, Senators Callinger and Europhan of New Hampshore.

May Abolish Agency.

Reports are affoat that the Presiden in turn will abolish the pension agence at Concord, but this is denied by th President's friends. That he will find Hampshire Senators and prevent them from having their own way about this valuable piece of patronage is generally valuable piece of patronage is generally anticipated.

This, however, is not all there is to the Senate and White House clash. It develops there is opposition in the Senate to the confirmation of George Wanmaker as appraiser of the port of New York. Wanmaker was selected at the instance of the Parsons faction in New York city politics and is a Taft man. The New York Senators will not enlist seriously in the fight on Wanmaker and his confirmation is expected, but prominent anti-administration Senators have their knives out and are looking for the opportunity to kill off this nomination. So far as the Ohio situation is concerned, it is expected Senators Foraker and Dick will keep up the opposition to confirmation of names the President sends to the Senate.

Is an effort being made to transfer the Texas fight on the brilliant Senator Bailey from the Lone Star State to Congress? This is the question that is Congress? This is the question that is the Capitol by reaof a remarkable bill by Representative Randell, of the Fourth Texas district The bill has bone to the House Commi tee on Judiciary.

Representative Randell's bill prohibits Senators and Representatives from serving public service corporations, national banks, railroad companies, shipping companies, express companies, or other corporations chartered by act of Congress, or in violation of the anti-office of honor, trust, or profit under the United States.

The provisions of the bill are so sweeping that it would cause a great scurrying in both House and Senate if it were passed. This is the reason it will not be passed. But because it has been introduced by a Texas member, it has created considerable talk to the effect it was aimed at Senator Bailey, and intended to emphasize anew the connection of Senator Bailey with the Waters-Pierce Oil Company.
